Storm Protection

solutions

“Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it.”

Oft-attributed to Mark Twain

Your home’s windows and doors are the exchange point between interior and exterior environments, inviting in the light, fresh air and a visual connection to nature. These glass areas can have a big impact on your sense of well being. Yet they are also very vulnerable to winter heat loss, excess solar exposure and the ravages of the weather, all of which can affect your comfort and your finances.

Catastrophic weather is not something we want to think about everyday. But when such storms strike, failure of the glass areas in the envelope of the building could put your family at risk of personal injury and significant financial loss. Insurance coverage has become costly to maintain and high wind deductibles could result in large out-of-pocket expense. And, even the best insurance policy won’t replace lost peace of mind.

What follows is an offering of practical solutions that can make your home a safer and healthier environment, more energy efficient and more comfortable. These product concepts will expand the way you use your home and bring style to interior and exterior spaces.

“...I can’t express how thrilled we are with our new rollshutters. We use them as an everyday part of our lives for sun control in the day in addition to security at night or when we’re away. We now have peace of mind that our home can withstand the brunt of any storm...”

Dyane S., W. Barnstable, MA

“The peace of mind and convenience that those shutters bring is beyond what you can imagine until you have them and use them.”
- Nancy K., Bristol, RI

Safety and Security

Rollshutters form an impenetrable barrier over your windows and doors, giving you a high level of personal safety and privacy. Conveniently operated from the interior of your home, options include electric or manual controls, plus digitally-timed or weather sensor controls for around-the-clock protection. Motor operated shutters with electronic controls can also be integrated into home automation systems. Rollshutters are a vital part of any truly effective security system, providing peace of mind whether you are at home, or away.

whole house protection

VuSafe, the “clear” alternative to plywood and expensive impact windows

Safer and easier to use and store, our exclusive VuSafe™ storm panel systems have been designed with the end-user in mind. Tough polycarbonate panels let the light shine in when the power goes out. When storms threaten, panels are quickly fitted into pre-installed attachment channels practically unnoticed on your home’s exterior.

Ideal for screen porches and seasonal closure.
